BRITISH EMIGRANTS

The Emigration Commissioners in Great Britain have recently published some statistics showing the total emigration from the United Kingdom for every year from 1815 to 1872 inclusive The totals for each period of five years are also given In the first of these that is from 1815 to 1819 inclusive the number of emigrants was 97 799 from 1820 to 1824 95,080 from 1825 to 1829, 121 084, from 1830 to 1834 381 956 from 1835 to 1839 287 358, from 1840 to 1844, 465,577 from 1845 to 1849 1 029 209 from 1850 to 1854 1 638 945 from 1855 to 1859 800 640 from 1860 to 1864 744 111 from 1865 to 1869, 1,061 98[illegible] and during the last three years, 804 588 Thus in all 7 561 285 persons have emigrated during the last fifty eight years from the United Kingdom of whom 4 905 262 came to the United States, 1,406 645 to the North American colonies 1 016 528 went to Australia and New Zealand, and 182,850 to other places It is to be remembered however that many of these emigrants were not natives of the United Kingdom For instance, 1872 the number of foreigners who emigrated through England was 79 023 or 26 76 per cent of the whole emigration and the proportion seems to be annually increasing while the numbers of English who emigrate do not keep pace with those of most other nationalities

A Chicago vagrant was about to be condemned to imprisonment for that he had no visible means of support "Wisible!" cried the [illegible], as he pulled from his pocket a section of moldy sausage and a hard old crust of bread "Wisible, Judge" ain't them wisible?"

WHAT IT MEANS

Manifestly the first thing to be done with a revolution or popular upheaval is to make out what it means Who or what has been condemned? At the White House no doubt they shake their heads dolefully and point to Congress If the legislative department had not given itself up to the most reprehensible courses this great disaster would not have taken place There is probably not a man in the executive department who does not at this moment firmly believe that it was the inflation tendencies of Congress that brought down upon it this crushing blow We have no means of determining what Congress thinks on the subject, for it has not yet come together If it could be polled to-morrow it would probably declare with all the energy of deep conviction that it was the third term which did the business The ambition of Grant to perpetuate his administration has wrought the ruin of the party which elevated him to the Presidency But official doctrinaires in a storm like this are not the surest guides They are too apt to view the situation from the narrow stand point of their own petty schemes and ambitions

The inflation project of the last Congress was only in a very restricted sense a factor for the reason that though highly unpopular at the East it was apparently popular at the West. It may be noted however that there was a greater relative intensity in the revolution on the Atlantic seaboard than in the Middle States The election of a Democratic Governor for instance in Massachusetts, 40 000 majority for Tilden in New York and so on speak of a more thorough upheaval than the few thousand majority in Ohio and Indiana We have also here the puzzle of the West revolutionizing against itself and explainable only on the theory that the detestation of malfeasance was the controlling and absorbing sentiment there On the other hand, the third term was a general and universal cause There was in it a violation of tradition that was not at all satisfactory Probably the best thing to be done with the official speculators is to accept all that they say of each other without reserve But when we have done so the examination has by no means closed

The cause which fits exactly all the seeming cross purposes of this political revolution is dissatisfaction at the general conduct of Government brought home to every man by the enormous taxes which he has been called upon to pay If the elections held on Tuesday were all local, we have no doubt that the same result would have been substantially reached with this difference that Democracy would have been overthrown wherever it was in office just as certainly as Republicanism In national politics there was no agency to which the people could readily lay their hand but Democracy They took it up and used it for the purpose of rebuking the party in power If there were any other and more reliable agency they would have employed it. In the States however there is no such poverty of weapons Independent parties are organized without a great deal of difficulty On Tuesday the people pronounced against corruption, extravagance, and high taxes Upon these subjects the utmost unanimity prevailed A strong majority, principally developed in the Eastern States declared for specie payments The South generally raised the banner of home rule With her that is the question of questions, and swallowed up all others There also appears to have been a strong demonstration in the country at large in favor of a tariff for revenue

There is here evidently enough to guide the party which means to strive for popularity for the future It must not be forgotten that all popular verdicts are more or less mixed, from the foolish practice we have of jumbling up local, State and national questions The citizen of New York had to decide in a lump questions of this nature With the single vote at his command, it was impossible for him to do so in all cases with clearness and intelligence A vote on one line of operations might tell against him in another. In like manner in the Western States generally, the transportation question was mixed up irretrievably with the misconduct of Congress, the alleged doubtful ambition of the President, the tariffs and subsidies When we come to separate issues, relegating each one to its appropriate tribunal we shall not have much trouble in reading popular verdicts down to their remotest and finest shades of meaning Upon leading topics there is however, no chance for stumbling There we usually have all the light that is necessary and on no occasion more notably than on Tuesday last —S F Bulletin Nov 5

THE SHOT AT KELLOGG.

[From the New York Times]

Governor Kellogg of Louisiana seems to bear a charmed life In an encounter with a Major Burke of New Orleans yesterday several shots were exchanged but the Governor made an escape even less narrow than when Cohen shot at him some months ago Burke who was the assailant in this case was also injured The frequency of these affairs is disgraceful but probably New Orleans people will feel most keenly the disgrace of such poor shooting

[From the Chicago Times]

A fellow in New Orleans yesterday fired three shots at Kellogg and missed him So poor a shot deserves no mercy He should be pelted with rotten eggs tarred and feathered, and then hanged There is no further use for him in this world

[From the Chicago Tribune.]

If the affair shall teach Governor Kellogg that his propensity of writing to the newspapers is dangerous as well as undignified and puerile we shall be almost glad of its occurrence

FROM DOWN THE COAST.

Marshfield Nov 7 1874

The gentle showers that fell on Tuesday increased to a heavy rain on Wednesday and Thursday so much so that the Roseburg and Coos Bay wagon road that is a tolerably fair one in summer was almost impassable for 20 miles through the timber below the canyon, beyond the summit. If 48 hours rain put the road in such a condition what state will it be in when the regular rainy season sets in? What added to the discomfort of the trip was changing the passengers at the summit from a tolerably easy stage to one that was rougher and coarser than one of the old fashioned two wheeled country carts used by our great grand fathers Add to this the fact that in trying to get through one of the deep ruts the contemptible sham broke down and planked us fairly in the mud Bud, who is an excellent driver and equally good natured, had to go a mile and borrow a farmer's wagon to take us three miles, where we got the return stage for Coos Bay The state of the lower part of the road may be inferred from the fact that it took us two days and a quarter to make the trip or 24 hours' travel to accomplish 62 miles making an average of 2½ miles an hour The men who accepted this road as having complied with the charter should be put in the Penitentiary and kept there until the incorporators comply with the law and fulfill the contract Add to this that it is a turnpike road! In place of charging teamsters for traveling on such a road liberal compensation should be given to owners of teams and stages who run the risk of doing much injury to their property It is however but a small sample of how State and national subsidies are misapplied by selfish men Had the road been made as it should have been and as the liberal land grant demanded and kept in good order as the turnpike called for, it would have been a great boon to the people of Roseburg Southern Oregon and Coos Bay As it is it is only fit for travel during the months of July August September and October

COOS BAY

Is steadily growing in population, enterprise and wealth The extensive lumbering business coal mining and ship building create a steady demand for good men, adapted for any of these departments of industry, as well as men of all work who have the natural ability of taking a hand at general work Indolent and intemperate men should not come here Competent and steady men of economical and other good habits can make money fast but, unfortunately, a large number spend their money as recklessly as they earn it by hard work Not a few are given to roving habits—will not settle down to steady work and never come to anything They are known as "tramps"—grumblers, who spread an evil report of the land wherever they go One leading firm on the bay employed more than fifty men during the summer from different parts of the State not one of them remained more than a month and the majority of them not a week They had not been accustomed to constant steady work but preferred working one day and loafing the next—or working one week and taking a spree the following one This accounts for the demand for Chinamen who, with all their faults and drawbacks fill by their steady application, the place of the indolent and careless The greatest grumblers are generally the most indolent and worthless portion of the community.

MARSHFIELD

Promises to be the most promising town on the bay The firm of C H [illegible] & Co is carrying on the lumbering business on an extensive scale The mill cuts an average of 38,000 feet a day, it cut a million feet last month The demand for lumber for the new coal mines causes a large home consumption in addition to the San Francisco trade Mr Merchant, the managing partner, is a gentleman of large experience, great energy and financial ability They intend commencing ship building next spring for which they have ample accommodation There are three good general [illegible] in Marshfield kept by C B Dean & Co, A Lobree and Nasburg & Hirst as well as [illegible] good accommodations for visitors and boarders The town is not equal to Empire for uniform streets and good buildings Now, however, that Marshfield is incorporated by the late Legislature and that the disputed title will likely soon be settled the town will make progress in good buildings and general improvements The Rev Mr Bates is making arrangements for building a Church and High School that will do credit to the educational interests of the town and bay He is meeting with ample local encouragement in the work

NORTH BEND

Is one of the most beautiful places on the bay and is a constant scene of industry, consisting of lumbering and ship building Messrs Simpson Brothers are the proprietors they have now finished and ready for sea the full rigged ship Western Shore She will sail for San Francisco in a few days with a partial cargo of lumber she is intended for the Liverpool trade, and will take her first cargo of wheat from San Francisco or Portland She can carry 2,000 tons In point of model, size and finish, the Western Shore is the most complete vessel ever built on the Pacific coast, and is the sixteenth vessel built by the same company in fifteen years The proprietors are gentlemen of moderation in prosperity, fortitude in adversity, and have built up a fortune by unceasing industry and uncompromising integrity The establishment is a model for taste, industry and discipline

ANOTHER BENDER FAMILY.

The town of Anderson Indiana has a Bender family but their name is Mawson We condense from the Cincinnati Gazette On the 21st of October it was given out that a dead man had been found in a well on Mawson's farm which lies just outside the town The farm is a quiet out-of-the-way place, and has been for some time called "murderers' ground." On investigation the body found in the well proved to be that of Albert Mawson, a young man member of the family residing on the farm

Last July this young man disappeared from home, and his mother aroused the suspicions of the neighbors by volunteering explanations of his absence at all times and places when she could find an opportunity, and without waiting to be asked about him These explanations differed from each other Sometimes she said he had gone to England sometimes to California sometimes to Cleveland Ohio A few weeks later she reported the death of her son alleging that certain of her neighbors had killed him, and that he would yet be found in the forests on her older son's, or her own place Then she told one William Fassett, a teamster formerly in her employ that the Lains had certainly murdered Albert, and buried his body in Smith's woods, or in a well,' and that the body would certainly be found in a few days Little attention however, were paid to these eccentricities People only remarked that 'Aunt Nancy' was worried about something, and looked haggard Then one day she asked Mr. Null to go with her and see what a fine stock well she had on her farm The well was covered with boards which she partially removed, and, stirring the water with a pole said 'See how clear the water is' Mr Null noticed that some stones had been thrown into the well and thought he saw stains of blood on some of the covering boards This excited his curiosity and looking further he observed a trail where some heavy body had been dragged to the well across the field On some stones in the trail there was blood. A terrible stench was also noticed about the well Null thought some dead animal had been thrown into the well and was about to examine more closely, when Mrs Mawson told him she did not want the well examined till her son Thomas was sent for as she feared some murdered person had been thrown in there, and it might be her son Albert.

Arrangements were then made with one Hoppas, a son in-law of Mrs. Mawson's to clean out the well The body was found, and before Mrs Mawson had seen it she declared in a fit of weeping, 'it was her Abby

The body was identified, and the evidence before the Coroner's jury led to the arrest of the mother and elder son After the arrest the mother requested to be taken to her home for some personal comforts, which request was granted Soon after they reached the jail the mother became suddenly ill The physician called in to see her said she was suffering from arsenic poison In a few hours she died The other son and the daughter and her husband paid no attention to the announcement of her death

Some years ago a man named White was hanged for killing a man on the Mawson farm Afterwards Mawson, father of Albert and husband of the suicide, on his death-bed confessed himself guilty of the crime for which White was hanged. Old Mawson himself died so suddenly and strangely that many suspected foul play in his case Then a little later an old miser who lived alone on an adjacent farm suddenly disappeared, and was afterwards found dead He was known to have accumulated considerable money but none was found about his house Eight months ago a daughter of Mrs. Mawson's murdered her illegitimate child near the spot where Albert's body was found

This last horrible deed appears to have been done as a means of restoring property to the mother she having some time since deeded [illegible] her property to Albert At least this was the explanation considered most probably correct, as the son was unwilling to convey the property back to her, and they had frequent disputes about it Altogether the case and the other horrors that have come to light in connection with it, are only equalled by the notorious Bender family of Kansas.

THURSDAY MORNING, NOV. 12, 1874.

THE TRIUMPH OF PRINCIPLES.

Our Democratic exchanges seem delighted at the result of the Eastern elections. They all rejoice. They exhibit signs of exceeding gladness. It is proper for them to do so, for their party has triumphed and their principles have received the approval of the great American people. The people have declared for repudiation of the national debt, for they have gone Democratic, and that means repudiation, as can be proved by any well-informed Bourbon of the State of Ohio: the people have pronounced against all forms of repudiation, for they have voted for the Democrats, and Democracy is the sworn enemy of every repudiation scheme, as any well-informed Bourbon of New York can testify: the people have unequivocally declared for a speedy resumption of specie payments and for a hard money currency; for they have gone Democratic, and the Democrats are the stoutest opponents of all rag-money schemes, as can be demonstrated by any intelligent Bourbon of the old Commonwealth of Massachusetts: the people have at last spoken so they cannot fail to be heard in favor of future issues of paper currency, for the election of Democratic tickets could mean nothing else, as every educated Bourbon in Missouri and Illinois is ready to maintain.

With all these glorious principles established by an overwhelming vote of the people, what wonder that the glorious old party which knows neither variableness nor shadow of turning, but is one in all times and places, is jubilant? We cannot join in their rejoicing for our ox has been gored; but we can appreciate the fact that a victory which establishes all the time-honored principles of the united and harmonious Democracy is such an event as may well be celebrated by all the faithful. It only remains now for Republicans, Independents, and other aggrieved classes to "judge for themselves as to the mode and measure of redress."

GEN. O. O. HOWARD.

In Yesterday's OREGONIAN we published the following item in relation to the case of Gen. O. O. Howard, taken from the San Francisco Chronicle's dispatches:

GENERAL HOWARD STILL LIABLE FOR THE CLAIMS AGAINST HIM.—Washington, Nov. 4.—From 1867 to 1870 General O. O. Howard invested over $300,000 in Government bonds, and used the interest received from such bonds in the payment of bona fide claims in order to make up the deficit in the public funds caused by the payment of fraudulent claims. Attorney-General Williams, to whom was submitted certain questions in regard to the responsibility of General Howard and Bullock for such use of public moneys, states that criminal prosecution against them is barred by the limitations imposed by the statutes, but that they still remain civilly liable, and suits may be begun against them to recover. Whatever money may be recovered should be turned into the treasury, in the same manner as is recovered from delinquent officers in other cases.

This dispatch we gave as we give any other matter of news, without comment. But as it is unjust to Gen. Howard in its tone, and as we cannot see how the case of Gen. Howard can possibly have got into the shape it would seem to be in from this dispatch, we present our readers with an explanation of the circumstances under which the investment in Government bonds, mentioned, was made. To do this it is only necessary to quote two documents connected with the trial. The first is a letter from Dr. Brodhead, Second Controller of the Treasury, to Gen. Howard, and is as follows:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
SECOND COMPTROLLER'S OFFICE,
February 9, 1874.

GENERAL O. O. HOWARD, U. S. A.—Dear General: In reply to your note of the 5th inst., I say that you called upon me in the early part of 1870, I think about the 1st of February, and inquired if there was any legal or other objection to investing the funds that had accumulated under the J. R. of March [illegible] (15 Stat., 26.) My answer was substantially that you might legally and properly invest these funds in United States bonds, deposit them in the Treasury, and account for the interest; that the acts in regard to the investment of public funds by disbursing officers, and especially the act of August 6, 18[illegible], ([illegible]t., 66,) did not apply in this case, as you [illegible] by law made the payee upon accounts already adjudicated and settled at the Treasury, and had received payment from a disbursing officer, who was credited at the Treasury [illegible] in every case. There is no law forbidding the payee of an account, for services or supplies settled at the Treasury, from in[illegible].

This was the purport of the opinion I gave you, and I am of the same opinion now that I was then. I have no doubt of its legal soundness.

I understand from you at the time that General Spinner had been consulted and had [illegible] as to the legality and propriety of the proposed investment.

Truly and respectfully, yours,

J. M. BRODHEAD.

The next is the third point in the findings of the Court of Inquiry, which reads:

Third. In relation to the investment of certain public moneys in United States bonds, while the Court does not hold that such investments were justified by existing laws, yet in view of the fact that these investments were made only under the opinion and advice of the Second Comptroller, the Court attaches no blame to General Howard therefor. The investment of portions of a similar fund, viz., the "regular bounty fund," had previously been authorized by express law.

The Court consisted of Gen. W. T. Sherman, Maj.-Gen. Irwin McDowell, Brig.-Gen. M. C. Meigs, Brig.-Gen. John Pope, and Col. J. J. Reynolds.

OREGON VS. CALIFORNIA.

The San Francisco Bulletin of October 4th thus discusses the profits of California farming:

Every year there are some hundreds of persons in this State who don't come out just where they had expected in their farming ventures. They had figured out the margin as a most satisfactory one, but the actual results were quite below the figures. These men are ready to testify that farming is a slow business. They have hit the edge of a truth, but they have not hit it fairly. It is true that wool has brought low prices. Fruit has been somewhat in excess of the demand; and most of the wheat farmers have not realized as much money as they expected. High water has covered some of the tule farms, destroying the crops; and the early rains have spoiled the late autumn pastures, and injured somewhat the remaining grape crop, especially where raisins were in process of manufacture. These are some of the drawbacks, all of which are special and local, hardly putting so much as a shadow on the great farming interests of the State. But we have this fact to set over against these small contingencies. There are less serious drawbacks to farming in California than any of the States west of the Mississippi river, or in any other save the few States within a day's journey of the city of New York. Not only have droughts and grasshoppers cut off the crops repeatedly in the Western States, but the farmers have suffered most of all because they were too far west—that is, they were so remote from markets that the cost of transportation consumed all the profits of the crop. Whereas, in California a farmer has the decided advantage of being in the extreme West.

To the general statement that "there are less serious drawbacks to farming in California than in any of the States west of the Mississippi," we must object. Oregon is west of the Mississippi river, and so far from having greater drawbacks to farming than California, she has far less. High water has never damaged her crops; her autumn pastures being perennial, grasses are benefited instead of being injured by the early rains. In California crops sometimes fail for want of rain; in Oregon such a thing was never known. We have much rain in the winter—more than is pleasant—and the same is frequently the case with California. Oregonians who spent last winter in California agree that they had never seen so disagreeable a winter here as that our was in California. In Oregon these copious rains extend far into the spring, and insure good crops. There the summer is dry and the crops mature and are harvested without waste. The sea is at our door, as it is at the door of California. One of the drawbacks mentioned by the Bulletin we suffer in common with California: our fruits are so abundant as to spoil the market. But otherwise Oregon is free from drawbacks as a farming and stock-raising State. As California's most favorable seasons are, so is every season in Oregon.

THE WILL-WALL CONTROVERSY.

Mr. E. W. Reynolds, of Baker City, writes that he thinks the proper pronunciation of the name of our river is Willamette. He says:

I desire to say a word in regard to the proper name to designate your beautiful river, as Judge Deady says it should be "Multnomah," but I desire to side with my Democratic friend, Judge Strong, as I know no one of any information or education ever called your river Wallamette from the year 1856 up to the present time, in my hearing, but "Willamette."

He says he came here at as early a day as 1856, mentions the name of a large number of our prominent citizens with whom he was personally acquainted, as well as many Hudson Bay men and old Oregon pioneers, and adds:

During a period of three years' steamboating on the Columbia, from Portland to the Dalles, never did I hear one of them call your river "Wallamette," but "Willamette," and if the matter is of serious import, I would like to run for the next Legislature and will have the river changed in name to "Multnomah."

Judge Edwards Pierrepont, a New York gentleman of excellent ability, who is chiefly noted in politics for the fidelity with which he sticks to a party that has booted him all over creation, said in a speech at Cooper Institute, just before the New York election, that the Third Term talk was only "a huge joke." To this the New York Tribune replied: "In May last Judge Pierrepont openly declared that Grant represented the average intelligence and morality of the people, and would be re-elected by a large majority. The Judge has denied many things about the Third Term, but we are not aware that he has denied this, and it is not probable that he will, since E. K. Apgar and Judge Werner were witnesses to the conversation."

James Williams, an individual of the most unimpeachable African descent, is in this city selling a book written by himself, and giving the history of his own life and adventures, including his escape from slavery through the underground railway. From a glance over the book we can not pronounce the highest encomiums upon it as a literary performance, but we should say it is rather an amusing one.

A New York paper gives the following specimen prices at which a large consignment of English works on belles-lettres, history, biography, theology, etc., were sold on the 29th of October in that city: Bacon's Essays, fifty cents; Bacon's Novum Organum, $2; Edmund Burke's works, printed in 1801, in eight volumes, 8vo., calf guilt, thirty cents per volume!

The columns of yesterday's Bulletin were filled with editorial puffs of the editor. We hope the editor of the Bulletin enjoys writing nice things about himself. Some people will question the taste of this self-adulation; but then, some people are too ready to pick flaws anyhow.

WORKINGMEN'S ASSOCIATIONS.—The New York Tribune utters these sensible observations on the folly of the attempt to organize a Workingmen's party:

"The efforts to organize a distinctive party of workingmen in a country like this is an absurdity. We are all workingmen. Hardly 10 per cent. of the voters of New York fail to toil, in some fashion or other, at least ten hours a day in earning their daily bread and supporting their families. The men who do it by [illegible] labor, if intelligent, are constantly striving to better their condition—to become bosses instead of journeymen, and employers instead of bosses. These can never be organized into a distinctive workingmen's party, and it would be alike unwise and preposterous to seek to confer the control of our municipal affairs upon a party composed of the workingmen who are not intelligent."

ROMAN CATHOLICISM IN BOSTON.—The official statistics of the Roman Catholic diocese of Boston, show that there are 175 priests, 100 churches, 15 churches in process of erection, 34 chapels and stations, a Catholic population of 310,000 and 68 clerical students, being an increase over last year of 17 priests, 10 churches, 3 churches building, 8 chapels and stations and 10,000 Catholic population.

CITY.

A CHINESE SCHOOL.—Efforts which have been put forth for [illegible] time for the purpose of establishing a Chinese [illegible] in Portland, are at length to [illegible] with success. A number of phil[illegible] men and women in this [illegible] interested themselves [illegible] in this important subject. [illegible] The matter has assumed a [illegible] A room has been obtained on the first floor of Good Templar Hall, on Alder street, which will be occupied as a school room for the present. This apartment is being renovated, and will be furnished with seats, tables, desks, etc. If the room can be finished in time, it is the intention to open school there early next week—probably about Monday. For the present the school will be held in the evening—say four nights in the week during each week. Should the attendance and interest warrant, the subject of opening a regular day school will be discussed. The principal object of the school is to teach the Chinese the rudimentary elements of the English and to instruct them simply how to read and talk our language. When they learn how to converse and read in English, it will be an easy matter to instruct them in general affairs, as they can then read the Bible and tracts for the [illegible]. Miss Mitchell, a young lady of this city, who [illegible] a very lively interest in the education and religious advancement of the Chinese race in our midst, has volunteered her services to act as gratuitous instructor. Dong Gong, an educated Chinaman just from San Francisco, is out calling among the Chinese [illegible] yesterday, and endeavoring to interest his people in the project. He reports that his efforts in the direction mentioned met with [illegible] encouragement.

CHINESE MISSIONARY.—By the last [illegible] there arrived the Rev. E. Z. Simmons, who is a general Baptist Chinese Mi[illegible] for the Pacific Coast. Mr. Simmons has [illegible] for some years with the [illegible] which have been made for the [illegible] of the Chinese. He has given [illegible] of hard and efficient labor in the good [illegible] as a missionary in China. During that [illegible] Mr. Simmons has acquired a great deal of knowledge relative to the peculiar [illegible] of the Chinese religious belief; also the popular [illegible] superstitions, customs, manners and rites of these strange people. He has also [illegible] a perfect mastery of the Chinese language, and can converse as fluently in that tongue as in English. Since returning from the missionary field Mr. Simmons has resided in San Francisco, where he has been actively engaged in the education and elevation of the race. In response to an urgent invitation, he came to Portland to interest himself in the starting of a Chinese Mission School here. He is accompanied by Dong Gong, a highly educated [illegible], who was converted some years ago in San Francisco. After qualifying himself to instruct his race, Dong Gong returned to China, where he remained two years studying and teaching. This evening there will be a prayer meeting held in the [illegible] of the Baptist church, on which occasion Rev. Mr. Simmons will be present and speak concerning the establishment of a Chinese Mission School in Portland. Dong Gong is also to be present, and will probably address the meeting on the same topic. An invitation is extended to the public.

COLLECTING TAXES.—One of the Deputy County Clerks has been engaged for some time in preparing the tax-roll to place it in the hands of the Sheriff. The labor requisite to go through the entire tax-roll, and figure out the exact amount of every man's tax, is immense, and requires much time and patient toil. But the greater portion of the work has been finished, and the roll will soon be ready. In pursuance of law, Mr. Jeffery will commence collecting the tax on the [illegible] As required, he will attend at the [illegible] places of voting in each of the [illegible] precincts of the county for the collection of taxes. Mr. Jeff[illegible] will visit the following precincts at the [illegible] mentioned: St. Johns, Monday, Nov. [illegible]; Willamette, Tuesday, Nov. [illegible]; Multnomah, Wednesday, Nov. 25th; Powell's Valley, Thursday, [illegible]; Sandy, Friday, Nov. [illegible]; Fulton, Saturday, Nov. 28th; Bauer's [illegible], Monday, Nov. 30th; East Portland, Tuesday, Dec. 1st; North East Portland, Wednesday, Dec. 2d; Grant, Thursday, Dec. 3d; North Portland, Friday, Dec. 4th; Couch, Saturday, Dec. 5th; Central, Monday, Dec. 7th; [illegible], Tuesday, Dec. 8th; [illegible], Wednesday, Dec. 9th; South Portland, Thursday, Dec. 10th. Tax-payers, by visiting the Sheriff at the places and dates mentioned above, and handing over to that officer the amount of money with which they stand individually charged, will save much time and trouble. The Sheriff will be happy to "receipt and receive."

STEAMER AGROUND.—Early on Tuesday evening a dispatch was received from Kalama to the effect that the steamer John L. Stephens had [illegible] that point, and could be expected at Portland at 5:30 in the evening. Although long and anxiously expected, she failed to put in an appearance. As the night was intensely dark and foggy, the most reasonable solution of the perplexing question as to the non-appearance of the steamer was that she had dropped anchor some distance down the river and resolved to wait for the [illegible] of day. About noon yesterday the [illegible] arrived from below, having on board all [illegible] matter. It was then learned that the J. L. Stephens was grounded at the mouth of the Willamette. While entering the mouth on Tuesday about 7:30 o'clock the [illegible] little out of the channel and ran [illegible] darkness [illegible] possible [illegible] Pilot Brown was [illegible] the position of the [illegible] extremely bright [illegible] He [illegible] was too near the bank [illegible] course the [illegible] Being night no effort was made to get the steamer off, and the tide being out [illegible] the vessel. She arrived at the dock safely yesterday afternoon.

THE [illegible].—Oro Fino Theater was jammed last evening, the occasion being the literary, dramatic and musical entertainment given by the ladies of the Unitarian Church. The entertainment [illegible] with selection from "Somnambula," performed by Messrs. Kay, Bray and Roos. After this came the exhibition of "Wax Figures," by "Mrs. Jarley," which was very amusing and afforded the large audience much merriment. "Hurrah for the West," a vocal quartette, was rendered by the Amphion Club in splendid style. Part [illegible] with an [illegible] by the orchestra. Next [illegible] a solo duet [illegible] "We'll have to mortgage the farm," rendered by the Amphion Club. A new waltz, "The Queen's [illegible]," good by Mr. Chas. [illegible] by the [illegible] "We [illegible] The Soul find rest," a vocal quartette, followed by the Amphion Club. A laughable pantomime of "Babes in the Woods" concluded the entertainment, which, throughout, was very enjoyable. Financially, and otherwise, the affair was a complete success.

Custar; "Losing to Win," Theodore Davies; "After the Ball," Nora Perry; "Songs of Many Seasons," O. W. Holmes; "Linley Rochford," Justin McCarty; "Life of Admiral Foote," Hoppin; "What might have been expected," Stockton. All for sale at publishers' retail price.

ANKLE SPRAINED.—On last Tuesday night, as a young lady was on the way home from an entertainment she stepped on a broken plank near the corner of Jefferson and Fourth streets, which gave way and threw her violently to the ground. One of the lady's ankles was badly sprained, so that she had to be carried home. She has been closely confined to her room.

THURSDAY MORNING, NOV. 12, 1874.

THE TRIUMPH OF PRINCIPLES.

Our Democratic exchanges seem delighted at the result of the Eastern elections. They all rejoice. They exhibit signs of exceeding gladness. It is proper for them to do so, for their party has triumphed and their principles have received the approval of the great American people. The people have declared for repudiation of the national debt, for they have gone Democratic, and that means repudiation, as can be proved by any well-informed Bourbon of the State of Ohio: the people have pronounced against all forms of repudiation, for they have voted for the Democrats, and Democracy is the sworn enemy of every repudiation scheme, as any well-informed Bourbon of New York can testify; the people have unequivocally declared for a speedy resumption of specie payments and for a hard money currency; for they have gone Democratic, and the Democrats are the stoutest opponents of all rag-money schemes, as can be demonstrated by any intelligent Bourbon of the old Commonwealth of Massachusetts: the people have at last spoken so they cannot fail to be heard in favor of future issues of paper currency, for the election of Democratic tickets could mean nothing else, as every educated Bourbon in Missouri and Illinois [illegible] to maintain.

With all these glorious principles established by an overwhelming vote of the people, what wonder that the glorious old party which knows neither variableness nor shadow of turning, but is one in all times and places, is jubilant? We cannot join in their rejoicing for our ox has been gored; but we can appreciate the fact that a victory which establishes all the time-honored principles of the united and harmonious Democracy is such an event as may well be celebrated by all the faithful. It only remains now for Republicans, Independents, and other aggrieved classes to "judge for themselves as to the mode and measure of redress."

GEN. O. O. HOWARD.

In Yesterday's OREGONIAN we published the following item in relation to the case of Gen. O. O. Howard, taken from the San Francisco Chronicle's dispatches:

GENERAL HOWARD STILL LIABLE FOR THE CLAIMS AGAINST HIM.—Washington, Nov. 4.—From 1867 to 1870 General O. O. Howard invested over $300,000 in Government bonds, and used the interest received from such bonds in the [illegible] in order to make up the deficit in the public funds caused by the payment of fraudulent claims. Attorney-General Williams, to whom was submitted certain questions in regard to the responsibility of General Howard and Bullock for such use of public money, states that criminal prosecution against them is barred by the limitations imposed by the statutes, but that they still remain civilly liable, and suits may be begun against them to recover. Whatever money may be recovered should be turned into the treasury in the same manner as is recovered from delinquent officers in other cases.

This dispatch we gave as we give any other matter of news, without comment. But as it is unjust to Gen. Howard in its [illegible], and as we cannot see how the case of Gen. Howard can possibly have got into the shape it would seem to be in from this dispatch, we present our readers with an explanation of the circumstances under which the investment in Government bonds, mentioned, was made. To do this it is only necessary to quote two documents connected with the trial. The first is a letter from Dr. Brodhead, Second Controller of the Treasury, to Gen. Howard, and is as follows:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
SECOND COMPTROLLER'S OFFICE,
February 9, 1874.

GENERAL O. O. HOWARD, U. S. A.—Dear Sir: In reply to your note of the 5th inst., I say that you called upon me in the early part of 1870, I think about the 1st of February, and inquired if there was any legal [illegible] objection to investing the funds that had accumulated under the J. R. of March [illegible] (15 Stat. 26.) My answer was substantially that you might legally and properly invest these funds in United States bonds, deposit them in the Treasury, and account for the interest; that the acts in regard to the investment of public funds by disbursing officers, and especially the act of August 6, 1846, [illegible] did not apply in this case, as you [illegible] by law made the payee upon accounts already adjudicated and settled at the Treasury, and had received payment from a disbursing officer, who was credited at the Treasury [illegible] in every case. There is no law forbidding the payee of an account, for services or supplies, settled at the Treasury, from in[illegible].

This was the purport of the opinion I gave you, and I am of the same opinion now that I was then. I have no doubt of its legal soundness.

I understand from you at the time that General Spinner had been consulted and had [illegible] to the legality and [illegible] of the proposed investment.

Truly and respectfully, yours,
J. M. BRODHEAD.

The next is the third point in the findings of the Court of Inquiry, which reads:

Third. In relation to the investment of certain public moneys in United States bonds, while the Court does not hold that such investments were justified by existing laws, yet in view of the fact that these investments were made only under the opinion and advice of the Second Comptroller, the Court attaches no blame to General Howard therefor. The investment of portions of a similar fund, viz., the "[illegible] bounty fund," had previously been authorized by express law.

The Court consisted of Gen. W. T. Sherman, Maj.-Gen. Irwin McDowell, Brig.-Gen. M. C. Meigs, Brig.-Gen. John Pope, and Col. J. J. Reynolds.

OREGON VS. CALIFORNIA.

The San Francisco Bulletin of October 4th thus discusses the profits of California farming:

Every year there are some hundreds of persons in this State who don't come out just where they had expected in their farming ventures. They had figured out the margin as a most satisfactory one, but the actual results were quite below the figures. These men are ready to testify that farming is a slow business. They have hit the edge of a truth, but they have not hit it fairly. It is true that wool has brought low prices. Fruit has been somewhat in excess of the demand; and most of the wheat farmers have not realized as much money as they expected. High water has covered some of the tule farms, destroying the crops; and the early rains have spoiled the late autumn pastures, and injured somewhat the remaining grape crop, especially where raisins were in process of manufacture. These are some of the drawbacks, all of which are special and local, hardly putting so much as a shadow on the great farming interests of the State. But we have this fact to set over against these small contingencies: There are less serious drawbacks to farming in California than any of the States west of the Mississippi river, or in any other save the few States within a day's journey of the city of New York. Not only have droughts and grasshoppers cut off the crops repeatedly in the Western States, but the farmers have suffered most of all because they were too far west—that is, they were so remote from markets that the cost of transportation consumed all the profits of the crop. Whereas, in California a farmer has the decided advantage of being in the extreme West.

To the general statement that "there are less serious drawbacks to farming in California than in any of the States west of the Mississippi," we must object. Oregon is west of the Mississippi river; and so far from having greater drawbacks to farming than California, she has far less. High water has never damaged her crops; her autumn pastures being perennial, grasses are benefited instead of being injured by the early rains. In California crops sometimes fail for want of rain; in Oregon such a thing was never known. We have much rain in the winter—more than is pleasant,—and the same is frequently the case with California. Oregonians who spent last winter in California agree that they had never seen so disagreeable a winter here as that our was in California. In Oregon these copious rains extend far into the spring, and insure good crops. There the summer is dry and the crops mature and are harvested without waste. The sea is at our door, as it is at the door of California. One of the drawbacks mentioned by the Bulletin we suffer in common with California: our fruits are so abundant as to spoil the market. But otherwise Oregon is free from drawbacks as a farming and stock-raising State. As California's most favorable seasons are, so is every season in Oregon.

THE WILL-WALL CONTROVERSY.

Mr. E. W. Reynolds, of Baker City, writes that he thinks the proper pronunciation of the name of our river is Willamette. He says:

I desire to say a word in regard to the proper name to designate your beautiful river, as Judge Deady says it should be "Multnomah," but I desire to side with my Democratic friend, Judge Strong, as I know no one of any information or education ever called your river Wallamette from the year 1856 up to the present time, in my hearing, but "Willamette."

He says he came here at as early a day as 1856, mentions the name of a large number of our prominent citizens with whom he was personally acquainted, as well as many Hudson Bay men and old Oregon pioneers, and adds:

During a period of three years' steamboating on the Columbia, from Portland to the Dalles, never did I hear one of them call your river "Wallamette," but "Willamette," and if the matter is of serious import, I would like to run for the next Legislature and will have the river changed in name to "Multnomah."

Judge Edwards Pierrepont, a New York gentleman of excellent ability, who is chiefly noted in politics for the fidelity with which he sticks to a party that has booted him all over creation, said in a speech at Cooper Institute, just before the New York election, that the Third Term talk was only "a huge joke." To this the New York Tribune replied: "In May last Judge Pierrepont openly declared that Grant represented the average intelligence and morality of the people, and would be re-elected by a large majority. The Judge has denied many things about the Third Term, but we are not aware that he has denied this, and it is not probable that he will, since E. K. Apgar and Judge Werner were witnesses to the conversation."

James Williams, an individual of the most unimpeachable African descent, is in this city selling a book written by himself, and giving the history of his own life and adventures, including his escape from slavery through the underground railway. From a glance over the book we can not pronounce the highest encomiums upon it as a literary performance, but we should say it is rather an amusing one.

A New York paper gives the following specimen prices at which a large consignment of English works on belles-lettres, history, biography, theology, etc., were sold on the 20th of October in that city: Bacon's Essays, fifty cents; Bacon's Novum Organum, $2; Edmund Burke's works, printed in 1801, in eight volumes, 8vo., calf guilt, thirty cents per volume!

The columns of yesterday's Bulletin were filled with editorial puffs of the editor. We hope the editor of the Bulletin enjoys writing nice things about himself. Some people will question the taste of this self-adulation; but then, some people are too ready to pick flaws anyhow.

WORKINGMEN'S ASSOCIATIONS.—The New York Tribune utters these sensible observations on the folly of the attempt to organize a Workingmen's party:

"The efforts to organise a distinctive party of workingmen in a country like this is an absurdity. We are all workingmen. Hardly 10 per cent. of the voters of New York fail to toil, in some fashion or other, at least ten hours a day in earning their daily bread and supporting their families. The men who do it by [illegible] labor, if intelligent, are constantly striving to better their condition—to become bosses instead of journeymen, and employers instead of bosses. These can never be organized into a distinctive workingman's party, and it would be alike unwise and preposterous [illegible] to confer the control of our municipal affairs upon a party composed of the workingmen who are not intelligent."

ROMAN CATHOLICISM IN BOSTON.—The official statistics of the Roman Catholic diocese of Boston show that there are 175 priests, 100 churches, 15 churches in process of erection, 34 chapels and stations, a Catholic population of 310,000 and 68 clerical students, being an increase over last year of 17 priests, 10 churches, 3 churches building, 8 chapels and stations and 10,000 Catholic population.

CITY.

A CHINESE SCHOOL.—Efforts which have been put forth for some time for the purpose of establishing a Chinese school in Portland, are at length to be crowned with [illegible]. A number of philanthropic [illegible] men and women in this city [illegible] have long interested themselves [illegible] important subject, [illegible] of the matter has assumed a [illegible] form. A room has been obtained on the first floor of Good Templar Hall, on Alder street, which will be occupied as a school room for the present. This apartment is being renovated, and will be furnished with seats, tables, desks, etc. If the room can be finished in time, it is the intention to open school there early next week—probably about Monday. For the present the school will be held in the evening—about four nights in the week during each week. Should the attendance and interest [illegible], the subject of opening a [illegible] day [illegible] will be discussed. The principal object of the school is to teach the Chinese the plain rudimentary elements of the English [illegible] to instruct them simply how to read and talk our language. When they learn how to converse and read in English, it will be but an easy matter to instruct them in spiritual affairs, as they can then read the Bible and tracts for themselves. Miss Mitchell, a young lady of this city, who manifests a very lively interest in the education and religious advancement of the Chinese [illegible], has volunteered her services to act as gratuitous instructor. Dong Gong, an educated Chinaman just from San Francisco, was out calling among the Chinese denizens yesterday, and endeavoring to interest his people in the project. He reports that his work in the direction mentioned met with [illegible] encouragement.

CHINESE MISSIONARY.—By the last [illegible] there arrived the Rev. E. Z. Simmons, who is [illegible] Baptist Chinese Mission [illegible] for the Pacific Coast. Mr. Simmons has [illegible] for some years with the [illegible] which have been made for the evangelizing of the [illegible] Chinese." He has given four years of hard and earnest labor in the good cause as an active missionary in China. During [illegible] Mr. Simmons has acquired a [illegible] deal of knowledge relative to the peculiar [illegible] of the Chinese religious belief; also the popular superstitions, customs, manners and rites of these strange people. He has also gained a perfect mastery of the Chinese language, and can converse as fluently in that tongue as in English. Since returning from the missionary fields Mr. Simmons has resided in San Francisco, where he has been actively engaged in the education and elevation of the race. In response to an urgent invitation, he came to Portland to interest himself in the starting of a Chinese Mission School here. He is accompanied by Dong Gong, a highly educated Chinaman, who was converted some years ago in San Francisco. After qualifying himself to instruct his race, Dong Gong returned to China, where he remained two years studying and teaching. This evening there will be a prayer meeting held in the vestry of the Baptist church, on which occasion Rev. Mr. Simmons will be present and speak concerning the establishment of a Chinese Mission School in Portland. Dong Gong is also to be present, and will probably address the meeting on the same topic. An invitation is extended to the public.

COLLECTING TAXES.—One of the Deputy County Clerks has been engaged for some time in preparing the tax-roll to place it in the hands of the Sheriff. The labor requisite to go through the entire tax-roll, and figure out the exact amount of every man's tax, is immense, and requires much time and patient toil. But the greater portion of the work has been finished, and the roll will soon be ready. In pursuance of law, Mr. Jeffery will commence collecting the tax on the [illegible]. As required, he will attend at the usual places of voting in each of the [illegible] precincts of the county for the collection of the [illegible]. Mr. [illegible] will visit the following precincts at the [illegible] mentioned: St. Johns, Monday, Nov. [illegible]; Willamette, Tuesday, Nov. [illegible]; Multnomah, Wednesday, Nov. 25th; Powell's Valley, Thursday, 26th; Sandy, Friday, Nov. 27th; Fulton, Saturday, Nov. 28th; Sauvie's Island, Monday, Nov. 30th; East Portland, Tuesday, Dec. 1st; North East Portland, Wednesday, Dec. 2d; Grant, Thursday, Dec. 3d; North Portland, Friday, Dec. 4th; Couch, Saturday, Dec. 5th; Central, Monday, Dec. 7th; Madison, Tuesday, Dec. 8th; W[illegible], Wednesday, Dec. 9th; South Portland, Thursday, Dec. 10th. Tax-payers, by [illegible] the Sheriff at the places and dates mentioned above, and handing over to that officer the amount of money with which they stand individually charged, will save much time and trouble. The Sheriff will be happy to "receipt and receive."

STEAMER AGROUND.—Early on Tuesday evening a dispatch was received from Kalama to the effect that the steamer John L. Stephens had [illegible] that point, and could be expected at Portland at 8:30 in the evening. Although long and anxiously expected, she failed to put in an appearance. As the night was intensely dark and foggy, the most reasonable solution of the perplexing question as to the nonappearance of the steamer was that she had dropped anchor some distance down the river and resolved to wait for the welcome light of day. About noon yesterday the [illegible] arrived from below, having on board all the [illegible] and [illegible] matter. It was then learned that the J. L. Stephens was grounded at the [illegible] of the [illegible]. While [illegible] the [illegible] on Tuesday about 7:30 o'clock the [illegible] got a little out of the channel [illegible], which, if possible, was [illegible] by a [illegible] of fog. Pilot Brown was [illegible] by the position of the dredger, and [illegible] by the extremely bright light [illegible]. He mistook his bearings and [illegible] he was too near the bank; but [illegible]. Being night no effort was made to get the steamer off, and the tide [illegible] the vessel. She arrived at the dock safely yesterday afternoon.

THE [illegible].—Oro Fino [illegible] was jammed last evening, the occasion being the literary, dramatic and musical entertainment given by the ladies of the Unitarian Church. The entertainment [illegible] with a selection from "Somnambula," performed by Messrs. Kay, Bray and Roos. After this came the exhibition of "Wax Figures," by "Mrs. Jarley," which was very amusing and afforded the large audience much merriment. "Hurrah for the West," a vocal quartette, was rendered by the Amphion Club in splendid style. Part [illegible] ended with an [illegible] selection from [illegible] by the orchestra. Next [illegible] a solo duet and chorus "We'll have to mortgage the farm," rendered by the Amphion Club. A new waltz, "The Ou[illegible]," by Mr. [illegible] by the orchestra. "Where [illegible] The Soul find rest?" a vocal quartette, followed by the Amphion Club. A laughable pantomime of "Babes in the Woods" concluded the entertainment, which, throughout, was very enjoyable. Financially, and otherwise, the affair was a complete success.

NEW BOOKS.—J. K. Gill & Co. have just received the following new books direct from Eastern publishers: "Life on the Plains," by Gen. Custar; "Losing to Win," Theodore Davies; "After the Ball," Nora Perry; "Songs of many Seasons," O. W. Holmes; "Linley Rochford," Justin McCarty; "Life of Admiral Foote," Hoppin; "What might have been expected," Stockton. All for sale at publishers' retail price.

ANKLE SPRAINED.—On last Tuesday night, as a young lady was on the way home from an entertainment she stepped on a broken plank near the corner of Jefferson and Fourth streets, which gave way and threw her violently to the ground. One of the lady's ankles was badly sprained, so that she had to be carried home. [illegible] has been closely confined to her room.

4 To forward abroad and in the other States pamphlets of the various grains fruits lumber and other products of this State

5 To keep a record and maps for use of immigrants of the State public and private lands and farms for sale the Board in no way undertaking sales of such lands but simply referring immigrants to the owners or agents of owners in Portland

The following report was read by Mr Laidlaw from the Committee on Finance

In terms of the Board's instructions at last meeting your Committee have to report that they have made arrangements by which the following commercial newspapers will be furnished to the Board free of charge U S Economist New York Price Current and Commercial List Philadelphia Shoe and Leather Reporter San Francisco Commercial Herald Hongkong Times Commercial Advertiser Honolulu San Francisco Bulletin San Francisco Guide Cincinnati Commercial Ind Boston Shipping List Grist Record San Francisco The Enterprise Chicago The Astorian the Portland daily papers Puget Sound Courier Olympia Intelligencer Seattle Albany Register Record Salem Bellingham Bay Mail Spirit of the West Walla Walla; Mountaineer The Dalles Willamette Farmer

The committee would also recommend that a stove be placed in the Board room when the various commercial and other publications arrive, and that the room be kept open in the evening from 6 to 8 for mutual intercourse of members when business is over

Your committee have to report having ordered in pursuance of instructions books in which to record the entrances and clearances of vessels which will be placed in the rooms at an early date Printed copies of the constitution and by laws are now in the hands of the Secretary for distribution to the members of the Board.

Your committee regret to report that the daily telegraphic information furnished to the Board has been quite inadequate and defective [illegible] such as it does not convey either quotations of California or Oregon flour Oregon wheat cargoes or reports and beside omits entirely a vast deal of telegraphic information furnished to San Francisco merchants which the committee were led to believe would be given this Board when the contract was made The Secretary therefore corresponded with the telegraph authorities complaining of these matters, and requested to be furnished with such full reports as the Board considered it was entitled to This the telegraph authorities refused to furnish unless they were paid a large additional compensation. Accordingly your committee have to recommend that the Board cease to receive such meagre reports as the price now paid is in your committee's opinion far too much for the services rendered.

AN AGED HUSBAND'S INJURIES

Chancellor Runyon has just rendered a decision in one of the most remarkable cases ever brought before the New Jersey State Courts. It is a suit brought by one James Persons against his wife, Harriet for recovery of his property in Paterson. Persons who was born in England in 1778 traveled in early life over a large part of the world. In 1853 he married and subsequently discovering that his wife already had a husband living, traveled to St Louis with her in search of her husband to whom he surrendered her. In England in 184[illegible] he married his present wife and finally decided to move to Paterson. Providing his wife with $3 500 in cash he sent her to purchase in his name the property known as Nos [illegible] and [illegible] River street in that city. She repaired to the place designated and had the deeds made out in her own name. In utter ignorance of this fact her husband, who is some twenty five years her senior afterward paid a small balance of the purchase money. Mrs Persons then started a boarding house and among her guests was a man named Isaac Farthing who was very near her own age. An attachment sprang up between Mrs Persons and this man and in proportion as the attachment grew, was the old husband treated with cruelty. In October, 1872, the pair took possession of the house. Mrs Persons putting a single dollar into the hands of her husband and turning him out on the street. Bent down with years and unable to engage in an active business he threw himself upon the hospitality of some kind friends and laid the case before a Paterson lawyer. Suit was immediately instituted by the injured husband against his heartless wife in the Court of Ch[illegible] [illegible] the title to the property purchased with his money. Chancellor Runyon has just decided that the property shall be turned over to the husband.—N. Y. Times Oct 27

Hunting for the Vice President.—The Springfield correspondent of the Chicago Inter-Ocean writes:

About 9 o'clock on Thursday night, Vice President Wilson stepped into the rooms occupied by a party of Chicago gentleman, hoping to escape the noise and worry of the corridors where everybody was shaking him by the hand and plying him with questions. Hardly had he taken a seat in the room when the door opened and a tall, elderly man appeared, accompanied by a young lady both evidently from the frontier settlements. "Is Mr Wilson in here?" said the man. Some one explained to him that the Vice President was very tired and would rather not be disturbed. "Oh well," replied he "no offense. We heard he wuz in here, and I says to daughter 'Lets see all the celebrities,' and up we marched. But I don't want to disturb any one." "That's him," he continued pointing out Wilson to the daughter. "I know him by his pictur." At this Mr Wilson came forward and shook him by the hand. "You're the Vice President, ain't you?" said the stranger. "Yes," replied Mr Wilson. "Wall," said the former, "I'm mighty glad to see you. You used to know my brother, I'll bet. He was Senator Wilkerson, of Minnesota. You knew him. He rather went back on us. Wall I was Collector of Customs at Savannah but the State seceded, and I just packed up my duds and left for the North, and I've voted for Lincoln and [illegible] Grant and Colfax and Grant and Wilson ever since."

"I am sure," said the Vice President "we are [illegible]."

"Don't be in a hurry, daughter," continued Mr Wilkerson to the woman who was slyly retreating to the door "come up here. This is Vice President Wilson." "Now," said he after the two had shaken hands, "we'll go out. I told Dick Oglesby that I didn't want any thing of his office or nothing of the kind, but I did want the privilege of coming in without [illegible] and [illegible] all I do want. Come, daughter, we've seen all the [illegible] for home." And with this the queer old gentleman opened the door and disappeared.

[illegible] Protestant nor Roman Catholic.—The cause of Ritualism has approached its ch[illegible] [illegible] try. Certain of the Ritualists have a thorough de[illegible] of the word Protestant. At one of the [illegible] of the [illegible] held lately at Brighton a delegate spoke of the Church as "our Protestant Church." Until that [illegible] had gone on smoothly at the Congress. These words however, were the signal for the battle. The High Church party [illegible] rose to a man and called out "No, no, not Protestant, never Protestant." The opponents of Ritualism stoutly maintained the Protestant character of the English Church. The advocates of Ritualism as stoutly denied it. They would not admit that there had ever been a reformation in their Church for that would indicate a break in its continuity from the days of the Apostles. The children are enlisted in the fight. At a recent celebration at a Ritualist church at Brighton the children sang a hymn commencing thus

"I'm not a little Protestant."

The Low Church at the same place, did not give back the echo. There the children were taught to [illegible]

I'm not a little Ritualist
No Ro[illegible] [illegible] am I

The Ritualists are in a peculiar position. They [illegible] with the Roman Catholics, but the Roman Catholics will not acknowledge the relationship. They claim also to be members of the Church of England—but not Protestants. How to reconcile these contradictions [illegible] to those who believe in them.—Chicago Tribune

A Child Strangled by a Cat.—The Middletown (N Y) [illegible] says [illegible] occurrence took place a few mornings since in the family of Mr Silas Doloway in that village. Mrs Do[illegible] [illegible] to [illegible] her babe a little girl four months old, on the bed up stairs, while she does her morning's work in the basement, from where she could hear the least noise. On the morning in question she [illegible] usual, but finally noticed that the sounds [illegible] and shortly after [illegible] a strange gurgling noise. Supposing that the child had got its head under the bed [illegible] she ran up stairs to see about it, and found the house cat with its nose in the child's mouth. The child was strangled black and was fighting feebly with his hands. She caught the child and shook it [illegible] when it caught its breath and came out all right. In a few minutes more it would probably have been strangled to death. Mrs Doloway had to pull the cat off the child so eager it was to remain. It had a paw on either side of the child's head, and had its nose [illegible] deeply into the child's mouth. The cat was instantly killed.

Schneider the Beautiful.—Mlle Hortense Schneider, the Parisian Queen of the Opera Bouffe, was in her youth a working girl and [illegible] of Bordeaux [illegible] living in the style of a Sultana. Her diamonds are valued at over $[illegible] and among her other jewels of fabulous cost is cited an emerald set of surpassing splendor. Her apartments are crowded with the most elegant and expensive furniture and objets de vertu. Bronzes and marbles and pictures and crystal and Sevres porcelain and Gobelin tapestry are scattered through her rooms in sumptuous profusion. Although the charm of youth is forever lost to Mlle Schneider she still has the handsomest arms and hands, the prettiest foot and the merriest blue eyes that flash and sparkle and entice behind the Parisian footlights.

Killed by a Wolf.—A child was recently killed by a wolf at La Rochette, France. A girl named Marie Favrand, aged 10 was on the border of a wood picking up acorns, when the animal suddenly appeared and seizing her by the neck, crushed her head between its jaws. On her crying out a workman named Texier came to her aid and grappled with the wolf a terrible struggle ensuing and lasting twenty minutes when another laborer came up and between them they killed the beast. Texier had, however been bitten in twenty two places in the contest, and the poor child in the meantime expired.

Secretary McCook's Murderer.—P P Wintermute convicted of the homicide of Gen McCook, and who has been in jail at Yankton Dakota Territory, for some time past, pending the hearing of a writ of error by the Supreme Court of the Territory in January next, was taken to Vermillion on Wednesday morning, on a writ of habeas corpus allowed by Judge K[illegible], on motion to admit to bail on the ground of bad health. The Judge [illegible] the application and referred the case to the Supreme Court, which meets again in December.

Latest Liverpool advices [illegible] Pacific coast wheat ranged from 9s 10d@[illegible] for average and 10s [illegible] 10d for club per cental. The London market is quoted at 45s 6d per quarter for average quality just shipped and [illegible] per quarter for average nearly due at Queenstown.

The local demand for money is insatiable and bankers notwithstanding they have almost doubled their usual working capital find it impossible to meet the requirements of the market and are of necessity compelled to accommodate only their regular customers. Remittances from the interior which, at this season should be quite free are small and irregular and merchants who have usually been depositors are now seeking such funds as they require at bank thus adding materially to the volume of what may be classed as unexpected business. Again, the farmers are in the market seeking loans upon their crops and other securities because they do not want to sell their grain until such time as the market shall favor them. Thus it will been seen that nearly if not quite four times the present banking capital might be profitably employed the present season were it to be obtained. In the open market there seems to be an abundance of capital seeking investment upon realty securities but owing to the stagnant condition of the real estate market values are under estimated by money lenders, who at all times want more than would be considered ample security in view of past experiences and as a consequence but few transactions of note are recorded.

In the general merchandise market to-day trade was less active than usual, owing no doubt to the inclemency of the weather which has a tendency to keep buyers at home. The prospects for the future of the season are not brilliant but they give promise of a fair share of business during the balance of the present [illegible] and [illegible] the first half of the next. The experiences of the past year in the matter of credits will doubtless exert a marked influence upon the trade of the future as we believe merchants all over the country have concluded to approximate the cash system as nearly as possible. The farming community will in fact derive the chief benefits resulting from the introduction of this system since they will be enabled to obtain their goods at better figures and when compelled to pay cash will be more circumspect in the matter of expenditures and after a proper trial will be the first to confess the wisdom and adaptability of the system so far as the Wallamet valley is concerned. The demand for goods from the upper valley of the Columbia is growing light, the business men in that section having already fully completed their stocks. The trade from the Wallamet valley is later this season than usual but the goods have already commenced to move inland and now that the rivers are once more navigable we may reasonably expect a brisk demand for all staple goods. The agricultural houses have profited by the rain and are now doing a brisk business in seasonable goods with all portions of the country.

[illegible] Market.

The late rains have so swollen the current of the Wallamet that it is now declared navigable as high up as Corvallis, and we may henceforth look for heavy receipts of wheat from the various shipping points along the banks. The receipts by rail and river must necessarily be very large and if holders only conclude to sell or ship upon their own account the export trade will receive an impetus which will revivify and thoroughly enliven it in all its branches. There is considerable speculation among grain men generally as to the probabilities of the European wheat market, and some writers of ability have advanced the theory that the [illegible] market is in part due to the immense shipments of grain from the Eastern sea coast, and they argue that as soon as the [illegible] waterways of the Atlantic States are [illegible] decline rapidly and the English market as the stocks work off will become firmer and about February will reach a point at which cargoes from this coast and other parts of the world may be profitably [illegible]. When we [illegible] that the crop of the world was large we cannot place much confidence in the developments of the future but basing our calculations upon this outlook we do not deem an advance in Europe at all improbable, but it will be so small as to create little improvement in local values except it be that cheap [illegible].

The vessels now in port and on the berth for the United Kingdom are loading up rapidly, and exporters as a general thing report cargoes ahead. But few [illegible] of note occur in this market the purchasing being confined to the wheat centers in the interior the prices ranging from $1 35 to $1 37½ per cental the last named figure being the outside price for round lots extra wheat, deliverable upon the wharf in this city.

Suits by Grangers.

The Vallejo Chronicle of last week states that papers had been served in three replevin suits against J H Campbell captain of the ship Charles Murdock lying in that port for the possession of 3 889 sacks of wheat shipped by E E Morgan's Sons. Constable H[illegible] was placed in charge as keeper. The suits are brought, the first by Charles E Green, the second by M Clancy et al, and the third by I D Stephens. All are of Yolo county and the papers are [illegible] out of the Sixth District Court. Owing to the absence of the captain the papers were served upon the first mate, Thomas C Burt. The wheat which is the subject of litigation was placed on board before the failure of the Morgans and the owners had received no advance upon it. After the crash came the farmers proposed to ship the wheat in the vessel if taken at the ruling rates. The captain, however, [illegible], claiming the freight was subject to the rates of the first charter and also the demurrage dues which are very [illegible] the [illegible] thus mentioned originates the suit.

Miscellaneous.

Our community was much excited to-day on receipt of the intelligence that some three or four well known wheat and flour dealers in San Francisco had failed and also that some change had taken place in the [illegible] of the London and San Francisco Bank growing out of the late Manager's relations with wheat firms. We give no names as the reports lack confirmation. One of the firms mentioned as having failed was identified as the leading house on the coast in the bag trade but un[illegible] in the tonnage business and when the vessels arrived upon a drooping market [illegible] some trivial excuse and were thus [illegible]. What effect these failures will have upon this market we cannot now say but between them all tonnage is sure to suffer as all or nearly all of them are supposed to have high priced [illegible] on note.

Capt. [illegible] to-day received by steamer from San Francisco, [illegible] to make good promised [illegible] of the barks St. [illegible] per cent upon the market [illegible].

Shipping Intelligence

The steamship John L. Stephens arrived to day.

The bark Garibaldi, for Hongkong cleared this afternoon and dropped down the stream as far as the North Portland sawmill, whence she will sail to morrow morning.

The ship Glenlyon loaded by Henry Hewett & Co per account of charter party is at Astoria ready to sail for Cork for orders with a cargo of [illegible] centals wheat, valued at $30 000.

The ship Dovenby chartered by Savier & Co is at Astoria ready to sail for Liverpool with 30 000 bbls flour and 8,176 centals wheat valued at $[illegible] 000. The flour comprises 5,000 bbls Imperial and [illegible] 000 bbls Oregon City extras. The charter was effected at [illegible] 5s per ton.

The bark Windermere is loading rapidly at Flanders wharf and will be ready to drop down the river on Friday next.

Quite a fleet of large vessels were off the bar when the John L Stephens crossed and in a day or two they will commence reporting themselves quite rapidly.

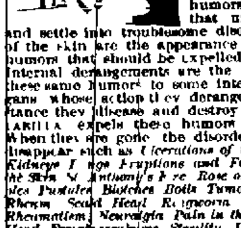
Ayer's Sarsaparilla,
FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.



This compound of the vegetable alteratives Sarsaparilla, Dock, Stillingia and Mandrake with the Iodides of Potassium and Iron makes a most effectual cure of a series of complaints which are very prevalent and afflicting. It purifies the blood, purges out the lurking humors in the system, that undermine health and settle into troublesome disorders. Eruptions of the skin are the appearance on the surface of humors that should be expelled from the blood. Internal derangements are the determination of these same humors to some internal organ or organs whose action they derange and whose substance they disease and destroy. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA expels these humors from the blood. When they are gone the disorders they produce disappear such as Ulcerations of the Liver, Stomach, Kidneys, Lungs, Eruptions and Eruptive Diseases of the Skin, St Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter and Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Ulcers and Sores, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Pain in the Bones, Side and Head, Female weakness, Sterility, Leucorrhœa arising from internal ulceration and uterine disease, Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Emaciation and General Debility. With their departure health returns.

AN AGED HUSBAND'S INJURIES

Chancellor Runyon has just rendered a decision in one of the most remarkable cases ever brought before the New Jersey State Courts It is a suit brought by one James Persons against his wife Harriet for recovery of his property in Paterson Persons who was born in England in 1[illegible] traveled in early life over a large part of the world In 1833 he married and subsequently discovering that his wife already had a husband living, traveled to St Louis with her in search of her husband to whom he surrendered her In England in 18[illegible] he married his present wife and finally decided to move to Paterson Providing his wife with $3,000 in cash he sent her to purchase in his name the property known as Nos 1 and 53 River street in that city She repaired to the place designated and had the deeds made out in her own name In utter ignorance of this fact her husband who is some twenty five years her senior afterward paid a small balance of the purchase money Mrs Persons then started a boarding house and among her guests was a man named Isaac Farthing who was very near her own age An attachment sprang up between Mrs Persons and this man and in proportion as the attachment grew was the old husband treated with cruelty In October, 1872, the pair took possession of the house Mrs Persons putting a single dollar into the hands of her husband and turning him out on the street. Bent down with years and unable to engage in an active business he threw himself upon the hospitality of some kind friends and laid the case before a Paterson lawyer. Suit was immediately instituted by the injured husband against his heartless wife in the Court of Chancery to gain the title to the property purchased with his money Chancellor Runyon has just declared that the property shall be turned over to the husband —N Y Times Oct 27

HUNTING FOR THE VICE PRESIDENT —The Springfield correspondent of the Chicago Inter Ocean writes

About 9 o clock on Thursday night, Vice President Wilson stepped into the rooms occupied by a party of Chicago gentleman hoping to escape the noise and worry of the corridors where everybody was shaking him by the hand and plying him with questions. Hardly had he taken a seat in the room when the door opened and a tall, elderly man appeared accompanied by a young lady both evidently from the frontier settlements "Is Mr Wilson in here?" said the man Some one explained to him that the Vice President was very tired and would rather not be disturbed "Oh well" replied he "no offense. We heard he was in yer, and I says to daughter 'Let's see all the celebrities,' and so in we marched But I don't want to disturb any one" "That's him" he continued pointing out Wilson to his daughter "I know him by his pictur" At this Mr Wilson came forward and shook him by the hand "You're the Vice President, ain't you?" said the stranger "Yes" replied Mr Wilson "Wall" said the former "I'm mighty glad to see you You used to know my brother, I'll bet He was Senator Wilkenson, of Minnesota. You knew him He rather went back on us Wall I was Collector of Customs at Savannah but the State seceded and I just packed up my duds and left for the North and I've voted for Lincoln and Johnson, Grant and Colfax and Grant and Wilson ever since.

"I am sure," said the Vice President "we are very glad to see you"

"Don't be in a hurry, daughter," continued Mr Wilkenson to the woman who was slyly retreating to the door "come up here this is Vice President Wilson." "Now," said he after the two had shaken hands, "we'll go out. I told Dick Oglesby that I [illegible] want any thing of his office or nothing of that kind, but I did want the privilege of coming in with all [illegible] twice and that's about all I do want Come daughter, we've seen all the lions now, let's [illegible] for home" And with this the queer old gentleman opened the door and disappeared

[illegible] ROMAN CATHOLIC —The cause of Ritualism has approached its climax [illegible] as well as in this country Certain of the Ritualists have a thorough de[illegible] of the word P[illegible]. At one of the [illegible] of the [illegible] Congress held lately at Brighton a delegate spoke of the Church as "our Protestant Church" Until that [illegible] had gone on smoothly at the Congress. These words however, were the signal for the battle The High Church party [illegible] rose to a man and called out "No no not Protestant, never Protestant" The opponents of Ritualism stoutly maintained the Protestant character of the English Church The advocates of Ritualism as stoutly denied it They would not admit that there had ever been a reformation in their Church for that would indicate a break in its continuity from the days of the Apostles The children are enlisted in the fight. At a recent celebration at a Ritualist church at Brighton the children sang a hymn commencing thus

I'm not a little Protestant.

The Low Church at the same place did not give back the echo There the children were taught to respond

I'm not a little Ritualist,
No Romanist am I

The Ritualists are in a peculiar position They [illegible] with the Roman Catholics but the Roman Catholics will not acknowledge the relationship They claim also to be members of the Church of England—but not Protestants. How to reconcile these contradictions, we [illegible] to those who believe in them —Chicago Tribune

A CHILD STRANGLED BY A CAT —The Middletown (N. Y.) [illegible] says that a strange occurrence took place a few mornings since in the family of Mr Silas Doloway, in that village Mrs Dol[illegible] is in the habit [illegible] to leave her babe a little girl four months old, on the bed up stairs, while she does her morning's work in the basement, from where she could hear the least noise. On the morning in question she heard the [illegible] as usual but finally noticed that the sounds ceased and shortly after heard a strange gurgling noise Supposing that the child had got its head under the bed [illegible] she ran up stairs to see about it, and found the house cat with its nose in the child's mouth The child was strangled black, and was fighting feebly with his hands She caught the child and shook it [illegible] times when it caught its breath and came out all right In a few minutes more it would probably have been strangled to death Mrs Doloway had to pull the cat off the child so eager it was to remain It had a paw on either side of the child's head, and had its nose pressed deeply into the child's mouth The cat was instantly killed

SCHNEIDER, THE BEAUTIFUL —Mlle Hortense Schneider the Parisian Queen of the Opera Bouffe was in her youth a working girl and the [illegible] of an [illegible] tailor of Bordeaux. She is now, at about forty [illegible] of age, living in the style of a Sultana Her diamonds are valued at over $[illegible] 000 and among her other jewels of fabulous cost is cited an emerald set of surpassing splendor Her apartments are crowded with the most elegant and expensive furniture and objets de vertu Bronzes and marbles and pictures and crystal and Sevres porcelain and Gobelin tapestry are scattered through her rooms in sumptuous profusion Although the charm of youth is forever lost to Mlle Schneider she still has the handsomest arms and hands the prettiest foot and the merriest blue eyes that flash and sparkle and entice behind the Parisian footlights

KILLED BY A WOLF —A child was recently killed by a wolf at La Rochette, France A girl named Marie Favrand aged 10 was on the border of a wood picking up acorns when the animal suddenly appeared, and seizing her by the neck crushed her head between its jaws On her crying out a workman named Texier came to her aid and grappled with the wolf a terrible struggle ensuing and lasting twenty minutes when another laborer came up and between them they killed the beast Texier had however been bitten in twenty two places in the contest and the poor child in the meantime expired

SECRETARY McCOOK'S MURDERER —P P Wintermute convicted of the homicide of Gen McCook, and who has been in jail at Yankton Dakota Territory for some time past, pending the hearing of a writ of error by the Supreme Court of the Territory in January next was taken to Vermillion on Wednesday morning on a writ of habeas corpus allowed by Judge Kidder, on motion to admit to bail on the ground of bad health The Judge refused the application and referred the case to the Supreme Court which meets again in December

Latest Liverpool [illegible] market Pacific coast wheat ranged from 9s 10d(s) and for average and 10s 4d & 10s 10d for club per cental The London market is quoted at 44 6d per quarter for average equal to just shipped and 48s per quarter for average nearly due at Queenstown

The local demand for money is insatiable at the bankers notwithstanding they have almost doubled their usual working capital and it is impossible to meet the requirements of the market and are of necessity compelled to accommodate only their regular customers Remittances from the interior which at this season should be quite free are small and irregular and merchants who have usually been depositors are now seeking such funds as they require at bank thus adding materially to the volume of what may be classed as unexpected business. Again, the farmers are in the market seeking loans upon their crops and other [illegible] because they do not want to sell their grain until such time as the market shall favor them Thus it will be seen that nearly if not quite four times the present banking capital might be profitably employed the present season were it to be obtained In the open market there seems to be an abundance of capital seeking investment upon realty securities but owing to the stagnant condition of the real estate market values are under estimated by money lenders who at all times want more than would be considered ample security in view of past experiences and, as a consequence but few transactions of note are recorded

In the general merchandise market to day trade was less active than usual owing no doubt to the inclemency of the weather which has a tendency to keep buyers at home The prospects for the future of the season are not brilliant but they give promise of a fair share of business during the balance of the present month and probably the first half of the next. The experiences of the past year in the matter of credits will doubtless exert a marked influence upon the trade of the future as we believe merchants all over the country have concluded to approximate the cash system as nearly as possible The farming community will in fact derive the chief benefits resulting from the introduction of this system since they will be enabled to obtain their goods at better figures and when compelled to pay cash will be more circumspect in the matter of expenditures and after a proper trial will be the first to confess the wisdom and adaptability of the system so far as the Wallamet valley is concerned The demand for goods from the upper valley of the Columbia is growing light the business men in that section having already fully completed their stocks The trade from the Wallamet valley is later this season than usual but the goods have already commenced to move inland and now that the rivers are once more navigable we may reasonably expect a brisk demand for all staple goods. The agricultural houses have profited by the rain and are now doing a brisk business in seasonable goods with all portions of the country

The Wheat Market.

The late rains have so swollen the current of the Wallamet that it is now declared navigable as high up as Corvallis, and we may henceforth look for heavy receipts of wheat from the various shipping points along its banks. The receipts by rail and river must necessarily be very large and if holders only conclude to sell or ship upon their own account the export trade will receive an impetus which will revivify and thoroughly enliven it in all its branches. There is considerable speculation among grain men generally as to the probabilities of the European wheat market and some writers of ability have advanced the theory that the present [illegible] of the [illegible] market is in part due to the immense shipments of grain from the Eastern sea coast and they argue that as soon as the [illegible] water ways of the Atlantic States are [illegible] up [illegible] will decline rapidly and the English market as the stocks work off will become firmer and about February will reach a point at which cargoes from this coast and other portions of the world may be profitably fixed. When we come to [illegible] that the crop of the world was large we cannot place much confidence in the developments of the future but basing our calculations upon this outlook we do not deem an advance in Europe at all improbable but it will be so small as to create little improvement in local values except it be that cheap tonnage is attainable

The vessels now in port and on the berth for the United Kingdom are loading up rapidly and exporters as a general thing report cargoes ahead. But few [illegible] of note occur in this market the purchasing being confined to the wheat centers in the interior the prices ranging from $1 35 to $1 3[illegible]½ per cental the last named figure being the outside price for round lots extra wheat, deliverable upon the wharf in this city

Suits by Grangers.

The Vallejo Chronicle of last week states that papers had been served in three replevin suits against J H Campbell captain of the ship Charles Murdock lying in that port for the possession of 3 889 sacks of wheat shipped by E. L. Morgan's Sons Constable Hutchins was placed in charge as keeper The suits are brought, the first by Charles E Green the second by M Clancy et al., and the third by L D Stephens. All are of Yolo county and the papers are [illegible] out of the Sixth District Court. Owing to the absence of the captain the papers were served upon the first mate Thomas C Burt The wheat which is the subject of litigation was placed on board before the failure of the Morgans and the owners had [illegible] no advance upon it. After the crash came the farmers proposed to ship the wheat in the vessel if taken at the ruling rates The captain, however, [illegible] claiming the freight was subject to the rates of the first charter and also the demurrage dues which are very considerable. From the difference thus mentioned originates the suit.

Miscellaneous.

Our community was much excited to-day on receipt of the intelligence that some three or four well known wheat and flour dealers in San Francisco had failed and also that some change had taken place in the management of the London and San Francisco Bank growing out of the late Manager's relations with wheat firms We give no names, as the reports lack confirmation One of the firms mentioned as having failed was identified as the leading house on the coast in the bag trade but un[illegible] dabbled in the tonnage business and when the vessels arrived upon a drooping market [illegible] trivial excuse and were thus [illegible]. What effect these failures will have upon this market we cannot now say but between them all tonnage is sure to suffer as all or nearly all of them are supposed to have high priced [illegible] en route.

Capt. [illegible] to-day received by steamer from San Francisco [illegible] to make good promised [illegible] of the barks St. Nic[illegible] [illegible] per cent. upon the market value of the [illegible].

THE PATRIARCH OF ANTIOCH [illegible]

Among other ecclesiastical puzzles of the hour and the air is full of them is the character and position of the so called Patriarch of Antioch who has been [illegible] up by the High Church people over here and been very much made of by some of the Bishops. The Patriarch is understood to have been very liberal in returning this courtesy by giving his benediction to his admirers and it has therefore become highly important to know how far he is entitled to exercise this function There are it seems some ten or twelve different ecclesiastics bearing or at least claiming, the title of Patriarch of Antioch but half of them do not belong to any of the Oriental rites Still there is plenty to choose from among the rest and it has been asked whether this friend of the English hierarchy is a Monothelite a Monophysite a Nestorian a Jacobite, or a defender of the Three Chapters whatever they may be. The object of this inquiry is to ascertain whether the Patriarch who goes about giving his benediction to the English clergy is not one of the heretics who are periodically cursed in the Athanasian creed It appears from the answers that have been given that there is too much reason to fear that the Patriarch really falls under the maledictions of the High Church clergy He belongs to the Syrian rites, has no connection with the Greek Church proper by whom he is regarded as a heretic, and as a Jacobite a Monothelite, and to some extent a Monophysite all rolled into one It may be suspected that the innocent English bishops were chiefly impressed by the venerable appearance of the Patriarch and took his orthodoxy on trust —London Cor N Y Times
